

Sandra Silvels

Values, Ethics, and Your Practicum

Moccasin Bend Mental Health Institution recognizes the importance of individual worth and dignity and the basic rights of human being for independence of expression, decision and action. Moccasin Bend understands that people who suffer from mental illness and emotionally distress are particularly vulnerable to loss of personal dignity and supportive human relationships. The institution ensures their patient will receive the best of care and with full recognition of their personal dignity.

1. The two ethical concerns are: Premature discharge due to Behavioral Health Organizer (insurance) and not enough supervise housing resources in the community.
2. The personal at Moccasin Bend deal with ethical question and resolving ethical dilemmas by discussing it with social workers or the supervisor or the department head. It will be an open discussion.
3. Moccasin Bend goes by National Association Social Worker Code.
4. The social workers at this facility have it own policy, but they are generated from the NASW Code of Ethics.
5. There are not No specific items or section in the NASW Code of Ethics difficult.
6. No, there are not particular issues or concerns that are not addressed by the Code of Ethics.
7. There are No policies I find are violation to the NASW Code O Ethics.

8. There are No specific items or section in the NASW Code of Ethics that appear to be in conflict with the state or federal laws and regulations.
9. Yes, social workers are committed to the NASW Code of Ethics.
10. Moccasin Bend handle reports of ethics violations by written incident reports, temporary suspensions of staff, formal investigations, grievance policies, and reports to state licensing bodies.
11. There have not been No social workers or stall dismissed because of ethic violations.
12. No, there policy does not conflict with personal moral code.
13. No, there are none.
14. Helping people in need, addressing people with social problems, and respecting the dignity of all people.
15. Through the state: Tennessee Department of mental Health and developmental Disabilities. This is who handles all complaints.
16. If there is a complaint about abuse or neglect staff and patients are referred to the Tennessee Department of Mental Health and Development investigator assigned to Moccasin Bend.
17. When a social worker commit and ethic violations he/she will face loss of license, civil action for monetary damages, criminal prosecution, and sanction by the NASW.